

The Bearhead Sisters are a trio who hail from Paul First Nation, Alberta. Their harmonies and voices provide cultural pride that have garnered them recognition and accolades. The group consists of three talented sisters: Allie, Trina, and Carly Bearhead. In 2023, they clinched the prestigious Juno Award for traditional Indigenous Artist of the Year at the Juno Awards. Their award-winning album Unbreakable, features their commitment to preserving and celebrating traditional First Nations powwow music.

The sisters draw strength and optimism from their family and Nakoda heritage. The trio was also spotlighted in the third season of Canada's Got Talent in 2023. For much of their lives, with the guidance from their mother, Yvonne, they have shared their gift of song, inspiring listeners with their powerful messages and unwavering spirit. Ali has stated that four years as Indigenous woman, they faced barriers in pursuing their vision to shape the spirit within their music.

The achievement in creating an album that has won Juno award is held is a true honour. These remarkable sisters continue to weave their cultural heritage into their music, leaving an indelible mark on the Canadian music scene. The Bearhead Sisters, recognized within the Speak Up exhibition.
